The Noues de Puy Jean

A visit to an educational farm where you can learn about animals and nature. In the garden of five senses there is a large variety of plants. Relax and enjoy contact with the animals and discover the fauna and flora of the region.

Long comment

When you enter the barn you will be surprised to find what is hidden a bit further on. A large garden welcomes you and your family with a magnificent display of flowers, trees and animals, many of them endangered species. It's not often you will get the opportunity to see Poitou geese, Poitou goats, Parthenaise cattle, chickens and ducks from Challans and other local breeds, living happily alongside each other. Inside the rabbit run, the rabbits will come to you to be stroked and fed, just as if you were a real farmer. A short trip around the aromatic garden will work all your five senses; you can also eat some of the flowers - original and too delicious to miss. Before leaving the park, there are games to play which will allow your children to put into practise what they have learned during the visit.
