Japanese Garden at Maulévrier

The largest Japanese inspired garden in Europe. A unique garden which will surprise you with its extraordinary architectural and botanical framework, its history and symbolism, and the "Japanese style" cut of some of the trees.

Long comment

Originally the garden was the idea of architect Alexandre MARCEL who wanted to create an oriental landscape in the park of Château Colbert. A century later the Oriental Park is the largest Japanese garden in Europe.

The Oriental Park of Maulévrier has more than 300 species of exotic plant species, some of which are trimmed and pruned to create a Japanese landscape.

The park is decorated with Japanese and oriental buildings such as a temple, pagoda, red bridge, pier, lanterns, etc.

At nightfall, your walk is accompanied by musical and poetic sequences around the lake ... magical moments!
