Long comment

Nestled in the heart of the Valley Thouet, gardens Gue surround a vast meadow that borders the river. An imposing ford allows the cross. Pine trees watch over fifty massifs where the gardener seeks harmony and diversity combining nearly 2,000 varieties of plants. Here a Florentine garden offers its colonnade and its basins watered a natural source; where the flowers go to assault the walls, baskets of stone and large rock hillside. Moreover, a widely distributed rose scents, and do not forget the well sequenced garden that has received the Grand Prize of the National Competition Potagers of France.

Calm and beauty await you in this dream place for a unforgettable trip along the birds singing, the sound of water and wind.
